PRESS RELEASE | March 9, 2009

Trussway Announces Organizational Changes

Houston, Texas; Trussway, Ltd., a leading provider of manufactured building products and construction services, today announced that in an effort to continue to align costs with current market conditions, it will discontinue the truss and component sales, design and manufacturing operations of its Franklin, IN facility. In Texas, Trussway will maximize resources and efficiencies by consolidating its administrative functions of the Houston and Fort Worth manufacturing operations. Fort Worth will continue production operations with the local sales force in tact; primary management, design and administrative functions will move to the central Houston location.

These changes are expected to be substantially completed during the second quarter of 2009. Approximately 150 employees in total are expected to be affected by these actions.

These actions will enable Trussway to significantly reduce expenses, share key personnel and to achieve higher utilization of facilities and resources. “We recognize and appreciate all the efforts of the team to run a great company and service our customers with the highest quality product even in the face of formidable challenges. We all look forward to an improving future economy and the opportunity to emerge healthier and stronger than ever as one united team,” said Jim Thomas, President and COO.
